8:30 PM Temperature: 37

ACTION ALERT

A quick moving system is headed in Monday morning for a 3-4 hour period of mostly light snow or snow mixed precipitation just in time for the morning commute. Temperatures are going to be hovering right at the freezing point so it will be in question how much will accumulate on paved surfaces. As this is during the morning rush hour we will be servicing all zero tolerance properties starting before and during the snow activity to make sure all properties have a safe environment for the start of the work day.
