ACTION ALERT

Next system spreads more drizzle and possible very light rain in to the area Wednesday AM. Surfaces might be cold enough to support some light icing and glazing at the onset of this precipitation right during the morning rush hour. The national weather service has officially issued a Winter Weather Advisory for tomorrow morning. As there will be no time in the morning to be "Reactive" on this especially with morning traffic we will be sending crews out during the early morning hours to perform a deicing application to all parking lots, garages and sidewalks to maintain safe conditions.
